All Matches Decisive

LIRR, NGC and CCC all won with sweeps of their matches and LSF was a mere 1/2-point shy of doing the same. The other match winner, PRA, came away with a 3-1 margin of victory.

FIDE Championship Set

On Tuesday the FIDE World Championship will take place in Potrero de los Funes, San Luis, Argentina. The tournament is unusual in that eight players are participating and the time controls will not be accelerated. The players are Rustam Kasimdzhanov, Michael Adams, Peter Leko, Vishy Anand, Veselin Topalov, Alexander Morozevich, Peter Svidler, and Judit Polgar. It was to have been open to the top eight players in the world but Kasparov (retired) and Kramnik both rejected the conditions.

It is widely held that Anand will win this tournament has he had been the highest rated of the group for many years. But Topalov's has been in great form recently and it would not be a stretch to see him take the top prize. Peter Leko is probably the other player with a legitimate chance in this group.

Of course the sentimental favorite will be Judit Polgar who, with a victory, could become the first woman to hold the title of World Chess Champion. Many will argue that it will not make a difference since that unless Kramnik is defeated head-to-head, that he is the legitimate champion.
